

Table of contents

Vanessa here.

This booklet is about my life as a graphic design student over the course of 15 weeks.

4	Sleep
6	Transportation
8	Music
10	Clothing

I'm sleep deprived.

I was told that we need 7 to 9 hours of sleep per night to function at their best, clearly they're wrong.

Over the span of 15 weeks, I tracked how many hours of sleep I get every night and it's safe to say that most of my sleepless nights are due to cramming projects or watching crime documentaries at 3 am in the morning.

The metro is my best friend.

After some calculations, i've apparently taken the metro for a total of 53.5 hours, walked for 25 hours, taken the car for 12.5 hours and rode the bus for a total of 5 hours.

Music helps me focus.

In order to concentrate, I constantly have songs playing in the background.

When it comes to designing, I noticed that I tend to listen to R&B and Pop because it brings up my mood and keeps me motivated. (Shoutout to my boy Khalid)

R&B
51%

Jazz
2%

Lo-fi
7%

Indie
17%

Pop
23%

Black is the color of my soul.

More than half of my wardrobe is black so it's only natural that i've mostly worn black clothing throughout the 78 days of classes.

